Course Code: 1LML105

Course Name: MASS MEDIA LAW

Course Objective

- Mass media such as press, radio and television, films, play a vital role in socialisation, culturalisation and modernisation of a society. The visual media are bound to have a much greater impact on human mind. But while these media have such a potential value as man educators, they are also susceptible to destructive and harmful uses for promoting criminal anti-social and selfish escapist tendencies. While their positive potential as mass educators has to be harnessed for developmental purposes, their negative, harmful potential has to be curbed in public interest. Law plays a dual role vis-a-vis such media. On the one hand, it protects the creative freedom involved in them, on the other, it has to regulate them so as to avoid their possible abuse. This paper will deal with such interaction between law and mass media. The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will be spread over a period of one semester.

Course Code: 1LML106

Course Name: CONCEPT AND DEVELOPMENT OF HUMAN RIGHT

Course Objective

- Protection of Human Rights (HR) became an important issue after the Second World War and after the acceptance of Universal Declaration of Human Rights. The growth of HR Law and jurisprudence thereafter was spontaneous and continuous. The changes in the global scenario bring new concept of HR protection against violation. In one sense, HR can be said as the rights which the nature has endowed with human beings. However, they are not mere privileges given to the subjects by the ruler but are liberties permitted to the 'citizens' in a democracy. Manifestly a law that violates human rights is no law at all. Probably this perspective may give an impression that human rights are not different from natural rights envisaged by the natural law school. Although Indian polity waited for more than one score and five years for adoption of Fundamental Duties in the Constitution, it is beyond doubt that every human being has responsibilities and obligation not only towards the other fellow beings, but also towards the society at large. Only when a society is aware of this right-duty relationship can there be any meaning to human rights.

Course Outcome

- On completion of these paper students will gain thorough knowledge in the field of Human Rights. This paper will further sensitize students about the violation of Human Rights and will acquaint the students with core concepts of international human rights along with regional and national organization structure on human rights.

Course Name: LEGAL REGULATION OF ECONOMIC ENTERPRISES

Course Objective

- After independence we have placed greater emphasis on the growth of our economy. The focus is on growth, both in public and private sectors, so as to cope up with the problems of population explosion. We have found that there is now almost a circle from laissez faire to welfare state and again back to laissez faire. Adoption of the concept of global economy in the presence of the socialistic perspectives in the Constitution presents a dilemma. The trends of liberalisation starting in the early nineties and continuing to this day bring a shift in focus of regulation in diverse fields of economic activities. This course is designed to acquaint the students of the eco-legal perspectives and implications of such developments. It will comprise of about 42 units of one-hour duration each spread over a period of one semester.

Course Outcome

- By the end of this paper students will be acquainted with the eco-legal perspectives and implications of developments that have taken place in business laws especially in our country. This paper would enable the students to understand how e-commerce and online expansion of companies prompted India to create regulations to cover other laws like cyber law and security compliances, such as the techno legal regulatory provisions in the Companies Act of 2013 and take a progressive step forward in the global economy.

Course Code: 1LML109

Course Name: PUBLIC UTILITIES LAW

Course Objective

- Public utilities are government monopolies, which are services rather than commercial enterprises. The law of public utilities is contained in the statutes of incorporation and judicial decisions given by courts while resolving disputes between the utilities and their consumers or employees or traders or others entering into business relations with them. In this paper a student will study (a) government policy in regard to such utilities in general and to each utility in particular, (b) the growth and evolution of the public utilities; (c) patterns of the laws of incorporation and (d) powers, functions and liabilities of the public utilities vis-a-vis their employees, consumers and others. The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will be spread over a period of one semester.

Course Outcome

- This paper will enable to establish a clear understanding on the role and scope of regulatory institutions, and their relationship with the legislative and executive wings of government, as well as the people who are the main consumers of the utilities (water, electricity and gas). The paper will portray essential services that play a vital role in economic and social development and how quality utilities are a prerequisite for effective poverty eradication. It will help students understand the rationale of governments being ultimately responsible for ensuring reliable universal access of service under accountable regulatory frameworks.

Course Code: 1LML110

Course Name: HUMAN RIGHTS AND INTERNATIONAL ORDER

Course Objective

- Human rights have universal application. They gathered importance when the United Nations adopted the 4 Universal Declaration of Human Rights in 1948. The role of international organisations in promoting awareness of human rights is very significant. The international conventions, though not binding, have persuasive force since the violations will be decried by the international community. International Non-Governmental Organisations watch and monitor human rights violations in every country. However, in the absence of national legislation, the enforcement of the rights will be difficult. With the above perspectives in view this course will comprise of 42 units of one hour duration to be spread out during one semester.

Course Outcome

- This paper will develop an understanding of the principles and institutions of international human rights law, including their historic origins, assumptions, contents especially of the Human Rights Act 1998, limits and potential in the students. It will further build an improved ability in students to think analytically about the implementation and development of international human rights law and to apply this body of law in your own professional and national setting.

Course Name: JUDICIAL PROCESS

Course Objective

- A lawyer, whether academic or professional, is expected to be competent to analyse and evaluate the legal process from a broader juristic perspective. Hence a compulsory paper on Judicial Process is essential in the LL.M curriculum. The Course Objective of this paper is to study the nature of judicial process as an instrument of social ordering. It is intended to highlight the role of court as policy maker, participant in the power process and as an instrument of social change. This paper further intends to expose the intricacies of judicial creativity and the judicial tools and techniques employed in the process. Since the ultimate aim of any legal process or system is pursuit of justice, a systematic study of the concept of justice and its various theoretical foundations is required. This paper, therefore, intends to familiarise the students with various theories, different aspects and alternative ways, of attaining justice.

Course Outcome

- Study of this paper will familiarise the students judicial process to attend justice through alternative judicial process and it will be instrumental to social change.

Course Code: 1LML202

Course Name: PROJECT WORK

Course Objective

- The Project of this course is to provide basic knowledge of research methodology law teaching and project work.

Course Outcome

- The students understand the research and project work in legal field.

Course Code: 1LML203

Course Name: PRIVILEGED CLASS DEVIANCE

Course Objective

- This course focuses on the "Criminality of the "Privileged classes". The definition of "privileged classes" in a society like India should not pose major problem at all; the expression nearly includes wielders of all forms of state and social (including religious) power. Accordingly, the course focuses on the relation between privilege power and deviant behaviour. The traditional approaches which highlight "white-collar offences", "socio-economic offences" or "crimes of the powerful" deal mainly with the deviance of the economically resourceful. The dimension of deviance associated with bureaucracy, the new rich (nouveau riche), religious leaders and organizations, professional classes and the higher bourgeoisie are not fully captured here. In designing teaching materials for this course, current developments in deviance, as reflected in newspapers/journals, law reports, and legislative proceedings should be highlighted. It should be stressed that the Course Objectives of the course include:

- (a) Dispelling of the commonly held belief that deviance crime is usually associated with the impoverished or improvident;
- (b) Construction of model so understanding the reality of middle and upper; middle class deviance criminality in India;
- (c) Critical analyses of legal system responses and
- (d) Issues and dilemmas in penal and sentencing policies.

The following syllabus prepared with the above Course Objectives will be spread over a period of one semester.

Course Outcome

- This course will create the understanding among the students the socio economics offence by social & economically resourceful persons and dispelling the offences through constructing the new model to check such offences.

Course Name: LAW OF EXPORT – IMPORT REGULATION

Course Objective

- After independence India has embarked upon all round efforts to modernise her economy through developmental ventures. Greater and greater emphasis is placed on increase of production in both industrial and agricultural sectors. Besides, there was the ever-pressing need for raising capital for investment in certain basic and key industries. All these required a considerably high rate of investment of capital. The process of modernisation necessitated the adoption of newer technologies for industry and agriculture. These technologies had to be borrowed from other developed countries. This, in turn, needed foreign exchange which could be earned by the increased exports of goods and raw materials from India. The need for accelerating the export trade of India's developing economy can hardly be over emphasised. Export earnings enable a developing country to finance its massive requirements of growth, to maintain its essential imports and thereby stimulate the process of its economic developments. In the words of Prof. V.K. R.V. Rao: "In fact, expansion of exports may well be described as an integral part of the development process, neglect of which can only be at the peril of development itself". Increasing exports have been necessitated to meet the growing needs of defence. India is a country rich in natural resources. One of the approaches to combat its economic backwardness could be in large-scale production and in maximization of its exports. Import and export of goods and raw materials is a complex, complicated and intricate activity. It involves elaborate economic, fiscal, budgetary and monetary policy considerations. Export and Import control policy is also closely connected with country's balance of payment position. The detailed procedures for imports and exports are provided in the Hand Book. The Union Government used to declare its import and export policy for a three-year period. At present they declare the policy for five years. The controls on exports and imports are closely connected with the Foreign Trade Regulation Act 1992. This course is designed to acquaint the students about the parameters of legal controls on imports and exports.

Course Outcome

- This course will acquaint the students about the parameters of legal control on import and export and detail procedure of International trade.

Course Code: 1LML205

Course Name: UNION- STATE FINANCIAL RELATION

Course Objective

- The Indian Constitution adopts federal government for various reasons. Power is divided between the Union and the States in such a way that matters of national importance are entrusted to the Centre and matters of local importance are left to the States. The Constitution departs from the model of classical federalism in many ways. This departure was made to suit the peculiar Indian circumstances. However, the constitutional provisions were in practice further distorted so as to make the states totally subservient to the Centre. Distribution of fiscal power is the nerve centre of the federal system. In this paper a student will be made conscious of various aspects of federal principle, and their working in the Indian context with a view to ultimately assessing the Indian experience critically. He must clearly understand various emerging forces such as regionalism, sub-national loyalties and nationalism. He should be able to see the working of the constitutional process as a vital element of the political economy. The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will be spread over a period of one semester.

Course Outcome

- This will make the student to understand various immerging forces such as regionalism sub national loyalties and nationalism in present federal Government system adopted in Indian constitution.

Course Code: 1LML206

Course Name: PROTECTION AND ENFORCEMENT OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN INDIA

Course Objective

- A reading of fundamental rights and duties in the Constitution of India reveals that they constitute the human rights charter in India. The judiciary, the major protective and enforcement machinery, is very active in protecting human rights. Judicial activism in this field has added new dimensions to human rights jurisprudence. There are a number of cases where courts apply the provisions of the international conventions to fill the gaps in legislation. The apex court has also ventured to apply international convention even where there was no legislation in the area. Thus the judiciary has been directly implementing international conventions at the national level. This course aims at familiarising students with the judicial activism in protecting human rights and enables them to evaluate the adequacy of the methods of enforcement. The course comprises of about 42 units of one-hour duration spread over a period of one semester.

Course Outcome

- This course will familiar the students with the judicial activism in protecting Human Right and enables the adequacy of methods of enforcement.

Course Code: 1LML207

Course Name: DRUG ADDICTION, CRIMINAL JUSTICE AND HUMAN RIGHTS

Course Objective

- Almost all the major dilemmas of criminal policy surface rather acutely in combating drug addiction and trafficking through the legal order. The issue of interaction between drug abuse and criminality is quite complex. At least three important questions have been recently identified as crucial for comparative research. First, to what extent drug dependence contributes to criminal behaviour? Second, in what ways do criminal behaviour patterns determine drug abuse? Third, are there any common factors which contribute to the determination of both drug abuse and criminal behaviour? Apart from these causal issues, there is the broad questions of the social costs-benefits of criminalization of addictive behaviour. Should drug-taking remain in the category of "crime without victims?" Or should it be viewed as posing an ever-growing threat to human resource development and be subjected to state control, over individual choices as to survival and life-styles? The problems here are not merely ideological or theoretical. User of drugs for personal, nontherapeutic purposes may well be linked with international trafficking in psychotropic substance. It has even been suggested that encouragement of drug-dependency may have, in addition to motivation of high profits, politically subversive aspects. Assuming that both addiction and trafficking have to be regulated, what penal polices should be appropriate? What human rights costs in the administration of criminal justice should be considered acceptable? The international response to these questions is indicated by the Single Convention on Narcotic Drugs, 1961, adopted in New York, 30 March 1961 and as amended by 1972 Protocol in Geneva, 25 March, 1972 and the Convention on Psychotropic substances, adopted in Vienna, 21 February 1971. India has recently adopted the basic principles of these conventions in the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1986 Broadly, penal policy dilemmas here relate to: (a) management of sanctions relating to production, distribution and illicit commerce in Narcotic Substances and, (b) ways of prevention of abuse of drugs, including speedy diagnosis, treatment, correction, aftercare, rehabilitation, and realization of persons affected.

Course Outcome

- The Study of this paper will create and understanding among student the Correlation with drug abuse and criminal behaviour.

Course Code: 1LML208Course Name: BANKING LAW*Course Objective

- A vitally important economic institution the banking system is deeply influenced by socio-political and economic changes. The emerging changes in India, particularly after the initiation of the planning process as an instrument of rapid economic development had moulded and affected the banking structure, policies, patterns and practices. A significant development in the banking system is diversification in banks financing. The commercial banks entered 'into the field of wide ranging financial assistance to industry, both large and small scale, requiring the need for social control of the banking system eventually leading to the nationalisation of banks. The conventional banking system, found to be deficient for planned developmental purposes, paved the way for developmental banking. The fag end of the last millennium witnesses influx of foreign banking companies into India and a shift in the banking policy as part of the global phenomenon of liberalisation. The legal system is adopting itself into the new mores.

Course Outcome

- This course will apprise the students the conceptual and operational parameters of banking law, the judicial interpretation and emerging dimension of the banking system.

Course Code: 1LML209Course Name: CONSTITUTIONALISM: PLURALISM FEDERALISM*Course Objective

- Constitutionalism essentially means a limited government. Where government functions according to certain principles, it is said to be abiding by constitutionalism. Must it be a democracy or can it be an autocracy also. In ancient India, the king was supposed to act according to dharma. He was not absolute in the sense in which John Austin defined sovereignty. Constitutionalism may therefore be determined by a written constitution or by religion or tradition or by mere practice or convention as in England. In a plural society, where different religious as well as linguistic groups have to live together, various rules of accommodation and mutual recognition are incorporated in the Constitution. Usually these are contained in the bills of rights which contain guarantees of individual liberty and equality against majoritarian rule. Constitutionalism does not merely imply majoritarian rule, it has to be a consensual rule. However, where there is not only such vertical pluralism but also horizontal pluralism reflected by subnations/regional loyalties, power is not only required to be restrained but it has to be shared. This calls for a federal government. The purpose of this paper is to provide exposure to the students to various models of pluralism and forms of constitutional governments and federal structures. The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will be spread over a period of one semester.

Course Outcome

- This course will apprise the students to various models of pluralism and forms of constitutional government in federal structure protection and enforcement of human right in India

Course Name: LEGAL EDUCATION & LEGAL RESEARCH MEHODOLOGY

Course Objective

- A post-graduate student of law should get an insight into the Course Objectives of legal education. He should have an exposure to programmes like organisation of seminars, publication of law journals and holding of legal aid clinics. Law is taught in different ways in different countries. The LL.M course, being intended also to produce lawyers with better competence and expertise, it is imperative that the student should familiarise himself with the different systems of legal education. The lecture method both at LL.B level and LL.M level has many demerits. The existing lacunae can be eliminated by following other methods of learning such as case methods, problem method, discussion method, seminar method and a combination of all these methods. The student has to be exposed to these methods so as to develop his Skills. Growth of legal science in India depends on the nature and career of legal research. The syllabus is designed to develop also Skills in research and writing in a systematic manner.

Course Outcome

- The Student will be exposed to different system of legal education and other methods of learning such as case method. Problem method, Discussion method and seminar method. This will develop there legal Skills.

Course Code: 1 LML 302

Course Name: JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

Course Objective

- Juvenile delinquency is considered and important branch of criminology. The impact of juvenile delinquency upon the formation of Indian criminology tradition does not seem to be noticeable. No understanding of crimes and treatment of offenders can be complete without a sure grasp of causes, carrots, and cures of juvenile delinquency. Increasingly, it is being also realized that young offenders require a wholly different centre of criminal justice system and should not be treated in the same way as the adult offenders. Juvenile Justice System, although a part of the criminal justice system has now its own autonomous characteristics. In addition, the state and the law have to deal with juveniles in certain situations, as parens patriae. The category of 'neglected children' defines the burdens of care which state and society have to assume for neglected children. Most categories of neglected children are also themselves the victims of crime. The institutional care of children poses its own distinctive dilemmas. These, too, should be discussed, especially, at the level of resource investment compared with the extent of need. The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will extend to a period of one semester

Course Outcome

- This will bring out juvenile justice system and to deal with differently form criminal justice system.

Course Code: 1 LML 303

Course Name: INSURANCE LAW

Course Objective

- As early as in 1601 one finds an excellent exposition of the insurance idea expressed in these words of an Act of British Parliament "the loss lighteth rather easily, upon many than heavily upon few". The insured person transfers from his own shoulders to the insurers, who, in return for agreeing to assume a potential risk of loss receive a payment known as premium. The insurers rely on the probability that only some of the losses, they insure against will in fact occur within any given period. They calculate, therefore, that they will be left with a profit. The insurer, on the other hand, is better able to risk his capital in trade since he knows that certain events which he cannot control, such as fire, shipwreck, will not cause him to lose his investment. The insurance idea is an old-institution of transactional trade. The age old form of insurance was the marine insurance. There is nothing like disaster to set men's minds to work. Consequently, in due course of time fire and life insurance, made their appearance. Within the last hundred years the insurance principle is being extended wider. Today one finds insurance cover for accidents, motor vehicles, glass, live stock, crop, burglary and various other disasters. Insurance is a device not to avert risks, calamities and disasters; but to mitigate their rigours and financial losses. The function of insurance is to spread such loss arising from risks of life over a large number of persons. The operational framework of insurance idea is provided by the general principles of contract. The insurance policy, being a contract, is subject to all the judicial interpretative techniques. Besides, the insurance idea has a compensatory justice component. This brings it in the arena of the law of tort as well. It is even suggested that a fully grown and developed law of insurance may, if not totally displace, decrease the significance of the law of tort. This course is designed to acquaint the students with the conceptual and operational parameters of insurance law in the context of the development of the general principles of law and judicial interpretation to inform the students about the use of law for the establishment of "just" order in insurance and to develop the appreciative and evaluative faculties of the students.

Course Outcome

- This course will acquaint the students will conceptual and operational parameters of insurance law in the context of the development of general principles of law and judicial interpretation of related laws.

Course Code: 1 LML 304

Course Name: HUMAN RIGHTS

Course Objective

- Human rights were conceived rather narrowly as mere freedom from arbitrary government in the past. It was realised later and much more so during last fifty years since the end of the Second World War that the threats to liberty, equality and justice did not emanate from the state alone. Many nations of Asia and Africa came to nationhood during this period. These nations had to bring about their development and they needed capital. Foreign aid and foreign investments were invited but these could very well lead to their second subjugation. Poverty, ignorance, exploitation had to be fought at the global level. Development had to come without the sacrifice of human values. A greater awareness of human rights, not only as negative restrictions on the state but as positive obligations for creating an environment in which man could live with dignity was necessary. The focus of a course on human rights must be on the national problems with an international or global perspective. The world community's concerns about human rights have been expressed through various conventions. On the national levels, they are contained in constitutional provisions such as directive principles of state policy, fundamental rights, fundamental duties and judicial, legislative as well as administrative strategies of reconstruction. Human rights acquire much more comprehensive and wider meaning. It requires us to take up cudgels against poverty discriminations based on caste, colour or sex, make provisions for drinking water, population control, conservation and preservation of natural resources, ecological balance, protection of consumers against ruthless and profit seeking, traders or manufacturers, provisions against hazardous industries and so on and so forth. Human rights are an important parameter for a just society and future lawyers must be able to assess any programme of social transformation with reference to them. The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will be spread over a period of one semester.

Course Outcome

- Human Rights being an important parameter for a just society, the students will be able to assess programme of social transformation with reference to Human Rights.

Course Code: 1 LML 305

Course Name: INTERNATIONAL HUMANITARIAN LAW AND REFUGEE LAW

Course Objective

- The two world wars had had enough of lessons to teach. But the present scenario shows that the nations have not learnt any lesson: wars continue to be there. The International Humanitarian Law aims at humanising war though war itself is inhuman. Human rights do have value only in peace time. War is the negation of all human rights. Though the United Nations Charter does not permit war, it has shown the wisdom to regulate the war if one occurs. War is one of the factors which create the problem of refugees. There have been some endeavours on the part of the international community to protect the interests of refugees. But due to political interference, the formulation of the definition of the term 'refugee' in the 'Convention relating to the status of refugees' has been such that it helps the developed countries to shirk the responsibility towards the refugees leaving the burden to the developing countries.

Course Outcome

- The study will equip the students with the awareness of the various problem of refugees and to evaluate the international conventions and national legislations.

Course Code: 1 LML 306

Course Name: COLLECTIVE VIOLENCE

Course Objective

- This is a crucial area of Indian development with which traditional, western, criminology is not overly preoccupied. Collective political violence (CPV) is the order of the day, whether it is agrarian (feudal) violence, or it is atrocities against untouchables, communal riots, electoral violence, police violence (encounters), political violence by militant and extremist groups, gender-based violence or violence involved in mercenary terrorism and its containment. It is not very helpful in such contexts, to mouth the generalities such as "criminalization" or "lumpenization" of Indian politics. Closer scientific investigation of these phenomena is crucial, which should help us understand both the aetiology and the prognosis of CPV. Instead of political analysis the course should focus on a broader social understanding of the political economy of law in India. Each specific form of violence will be examined with a view to identifying the course of its evolution, the state-law response policies of management of sanctions, compensation and rehabilitation of victims of violence, social and political costs. The growth of police and paramilitary forces will also, in this context, be an object of study. Primary materials here will be governmental and citizen investigative reports. The emphasis of the course will be on fashioning overall democratic understanding and responses to meet this problem. The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will be spread over a period of one semester.

Course Outcome

- The student will develop the democratic understanding and responses to meet the problem of collection violence.

Course Code: 1 LML 307

Course Name: CORPORATE FINANCE

Course Objective

- Industrialization has played, and has to play, a very vital role in the economic development of India. In the post independent era, industrial development is regarded, and hence employed, as principal means in the strategy for achieving the goal of economic and social justice envisioned in the Constitution. Corporations, both public and private, are viewed as a powerful instrument for development. In a developing society like India enormous varieties of consumer goods are manufactured or produced. Obviously, the situation raises the issues of procuring, utilising and managing the finances. For this purpose a science of financial management techniques has been evolved. The faculties of commerce, business and management studies have since last decades started to impart instruction so as to turn out sufficiently well equipped and adequately trained financial personnel. However, the legal and juristic aspects of corporate finance have been more or less not effectively taken care of. In view of the above perspectives the broad Course Objectives of this cause may be formulated as follows-
 - (i) To understand the economic and legal dimensions of corporate finance in the process industrial development in establishing social order in the context of constitutional values
 - (ii) To acquaint the students with the normative, philosophical and economic contours of various statutory rules relating to corporate finance

- (iii) To acquaint the students with the organisation, functions, lending, and recovery procedures, conditions of lending and accountability of international national and state financing institutions and also of commercial banks; and
- (iv) To acquaint the students with the process of the flow and outflow of corporate finance.

Course Outcome

- This will acquaint the student the legal and justice aspects of corporate finance.

Course Code: 1 LML 308Course Name: NATIONAL SECURITY, PUBLIC ORDER & RULE OF LAW*Course Objective

- In every written constitution, provision is required to be made to equip the state to face grave threats to its existence arising from extra-ordinary circumstances created by war or external aggression or armed rebellion. Although "amidst the clash of arms, the laws are not silent" they do not speak the same language in war as in peace. Extra-ordinary circumstances warrant the invocation of extra-ordinary laws and such laws are known as emergency laws. They put greater fetters on individual liberty and also eclipse certain aspects of the due process. But in such circumstances, the democratic forces must assert that for survival of the State, the least possible liberty should be available. The students should be familiarized with different aspects of such emergency powers and scrutinizing intellectual attitude towards such powers. The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will comprise 42 units of one hour duration each to be covered over a period of one semester.

Course Outcome

- Students will be familiarized with different aspects of emergency powers and intellectual attitude towards such powers

Course Code: 1 LML 309Course Name: SCIENCE TECHNOLOGY AND HUMAN RIGHTS*Course Objective

- We live in an era of scientific development. The alarming rate of development in biotechnology calls for drastic change in the law. Many concepts and terms have to be re-defined. The development in information technology poses serious problems and challenges. The rapid changes made by science and technology will have to be reflected in law to make it meaningful and realistic in the modern era. This course is intended to make students conscious of various legal problems arising due to developments in such areas as biotechnology and information technology and to identify the changes needed in the law.

Course Outcome

- This study will make the students conscious of various legal problem arising due to development in science and technology.

- Investigate significant research in the field or an innovative, multidisciplinary initiative. Under the direction of an advisor, students plan and carry out their study while gaining the intellectual freedom that is characteristic of good scholarship.
- This programme opens the opportunity for the post-graduation students in their respective streams to start research work in the interesting area which will be helpful for society.
- demonstrate oral and written communication abilities necessary for writing funding proposals, presenting work in their field at conferences, and publishing.
- This programme fosters independence and creativity in problem-solving strategies.

Course Code: 5010113601

Course Name: Research Methodology

Course Objective

- This subject aims to provide an overview of emerging trends in the field of commerce and related researchable areas for Ph. D. scholars with the view of having improved understanding and scope for further research.

Course Outcomes

- This Course will help Ph.D. Scholars to understand purpose and process of legal Research and Develop the basic approach for advanced research and critical writing.

Course Code: 5010153601Course Name: Principals of Law*Course Objective

- The object of the course is to enable Ph.D. Scholars to assimilate the Legal knowledge, current problem and issues in Law. It will develop the concept of research and will develop the skill in conducting research work.

Course Outcomes

- After learning this subject scholars will be able to understand the concepts and process of Law and will able to carry out their research work effectively considering the ethics of research for usefulness of society.

Course Code: 5010153602Course Name: Law of industrial and intellectual property*Course Objective

- The concept of intellectual property rights as developed in India cannot be divorced from the developments in the international arena as well as in the nation-to-nation relations. The impact of IPR regime on the economic front is emphasised in this paper. In particular, greater attention would be given here to the law relating to unfair and restrictive trade practices as affecting the regime of intellectual property rights. New areas of development, especially plant patenting and patenting of new forms of life (biotechnology) should receive special attention. Evidentiary aspects of infringement and human right dimensions of the regime of intellectual property law will also be addressed. The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will be spread over a period of one semester.

Course Outcomes

- After a detailed study of these paper students will be able to demonstrate a basic understanding of the legal system involved specially in respect to Industries and Intellectual Property. Students will develop good hold on the core doctrines of intellectual property law and industrial laws.

Course Code: 5010153603

Course Name: Public Utilities Law

Course Objective

- Public utilities are government monopolies, which are services rather than commercial enterprises. The law of public utilities is contained in the statutes of incorporation and judicial decisions given by courts while resolving disputes between the utilities and their consumers or employees or traders or others entering into business relations with them. In this paper a student will study (a) government policy in regard to such utilities in general and to each utility in particular, (b) the growth and evolution of the public utilities; (c) patterns of the laws of incorporation and (d) powers, functions and liabilities of the public utilities vis-a-vis their employees, consumers and others. The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will be spread over a period of one semester.

Course Outcomes

- This paper will enable to establish a clear understanding on the role and scope of regulatory institutions, and their relationship with the legislative and executive wings of government, as well as the people who are the main consumers of the utilities (water, electricity and gas). The paper will portray essential services that play a vital role in economic and social development and how quality utilities are a prerequisite for effective poverty eradication. It will help students understand the rationale of governments being ultimately responsible for ensuring reliable universal access of service under accountable regulatory frameworks.

Course Objective

- In every written constitution, provision is required to be made to equip the state to face grave threats to its existence arising from extra-ordinary circumstances created by war or external aggression or armed rebellion. Although "amidst the clash of arms, the laws are not silent" they do not speak the same language in war as in peace. Extra-ordinary circumstances warrant the invocation of extra-ordinary laws and such laws are known as emergency laws. They put greater fetters on individual liberty and also eclipse certain aspects of the due process. But in such circumstances, the democratic forces must assert that for survival of the State, the least possible liberty should be available. The students should be familiarized with different aspects of such emergency powers and scrutinizing intellectual attitude towards such powers. The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will comprise 42 units of one hour duration each to be covered over a period of one semester.

Course Outcomes

- Students will be familiarized with different aspects of emergency powers and intellectual attitude towards such powers
